call for participants
Cultures and Practices of Pluralism in Egypt and Germany
Berlin, 1-11th July 2013

what?
A workshop by students of TU Berlin and Ain Shams University Cairo dealing with pluralism and plurality in theory and practice of both the German and the Egyptian Society. The program will include topics such as (anti-)discrimination, social movements, freedom of press and religion.
If needed, gaining 3 ECTS without grade in your field of free choice is possible.
All costs, incl. admissions and catering will be payed by the DAAD.

who?
All students. We especially want to encourage everybody who faces and/or opposes social exclusion and injustice or is committed to the topic in any other way.
Open-mindedness and active participation are expected. You are going to prepare and present the topics of the workshop yourselves. Although you don’t need to be present at all the activities you should make sure to have enough time during the workshop days as well as for preparatory meetings.

how?
If you want to join the workshop, send an email to wanacu@tu-berlin.de till 12th May, including:
- your name and age
- your field of study and the number of terms you’ve spent on it
- why you want to join (half a page max.)
Please also tell us how much time you will be able to spend on the workshop!